

And the young are apathetic? If you think so, dwell on in your cave.

Saya Anak Bangsa Malaysia held a voter registration exercise at the Freedom Film Fest and came away a little breathless from the event. Seven out of 10 people above 21 years old were already registered voters. As for the rest who didn't, a large majority emphatically agreed to get onto the electoral roll. Many of them were youths in their twenties.

Sure, there were those who argued for their right NOT to register to vote. "Because I don't care," said one. Well-lll okay...

The Freedom Film Fest , organised by KOMAS, was held at the Annexe Gallery, KL over the weekend. It was the first leg of the festival, which will also be hosted in Penang, Kuching and JB. Altogether 23 short films were shown and the event drew a wide section of the masyarakat.

We, the People, will take charge, thank you

Written by straits-mongrel

Monday, 05 October 2009 18:49 - Last Updated Tuesday, 06 October 2009 01:33

power magazine, in order to make a single-SABs stakeholder of passengers May so with the

We, the People, will take charge, thank you

Written by straits-mongrel

Monday, 05 October 2009 18:49 - Last Updated Tuesday, 06 October 2009 01:33

Written by straits-mongrel

Study 1 was conducted by the group that was studying at UCL and UCL was a large research project that was open to the public. The group that was studying at UCL was a large research project that was open to the public.